

Local Governance in North East India

By C. Nunthara

2015. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. 356 About The Book:- After the First World War, the world had witnessed increasing decentralization and concentration of power and authority both in developed and underdeveloped countries. However, governments around the world began to realize that centralized government have failed to deliver public services during decades 1960s and 1970s. Decentralization of power, authority, and resources has been recommended. As a result of the fall of authoritarian regimes in Latin America in the 1980s and Central and Eastern Europe by the 1990s, the spread of democratic principles, the prescription of IMF and World Bank and other International Development agencies prescribing decentralization as the structure needed to strengthen democracy and promote good governance, there has been renewed global interest in decentralization. In India, the Indian Constitution, both through Directive Principle of State Policy and the 73 and 74 Constitutional Amendments provides a clear mandate for democratic decentralization. It seeks to create institutional framework for grass roots democracy through medium of self governing local bodies in both rural and urban areas. After the Ministry of Panchayati Raj was...
