Reviews

This ebook is very gripping and fascinating. Sure, it is engage in, nevertheless an amazing and interesting literature. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

We should also have more hydrants in the business district. They are too far apart. We have a couple of suburban districts (residence) where the pressure is not good. Do not understand from what I have said that we are not in fairly good shape in the business district to fight fire, because we are; but it is the future I am looking to, and the city should be aroused to action before the time comes when the pressure is poor. Geo. W. Kellogg, Chief. KANSAS. Ottawa, April 2d, 1901. I know without any further tests the capacity of our water works plant. They can give us about five good fire streams in the business part of our town. They could increase that some by either enlarging the mains on the two streets nearest Main Street (our business street) on each side and connect them with Main Street from First to Fourth, instead of having them dead ends as they are now; or if they would not do that, if they will connect them as they are so as not to be dead ends it would be an improvement. H. C. Branson, Chief. Topeka, April 4th, 1901. The water service in this city in the compact portions of the city is at present time in serviceable shape. Fire hydrants have invariably been placed upon the larger of two mains, and I am not aware of any case in our city where it is otherwise. The...
